

Fragments Thread

In the end we can't take anything with us.
All that is left is the experiences shared.

Would you rather be remembered for how much you were worth,
or how much you shared?

Did you take more than you needed,
or did you give more than you had?